

Walter L. Randolph Heads Farm Bureau Federation

New President Is Former Director Of Southern Division of The Agricultural Adjustment Program

Alabama still has the youngest state Farm Bureau president in the United States. As 31-year-old Howard Gray retired after serving two terms he was succeeded by 34-year-old Walter L. Randolph.

President Randolph was born on a farm in Fayette County, Alabama. He was graduated from Alabama Polytechnic Institute in 1925. He has for many years been engaged in Farm Bureau work, having served the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation for several years as director of information, as director of organization, and as executive secretary. Since that time he has been engaged in farming and in various positions of agricultural work and leadership. For several years he served as administrative officer of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration programs in Alabama. From there he was called to Washington and made assistant director of the southern division of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Upon accepting the presidency of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation he has resigned from his position.

Randolph married Miss Mayfred Lunsford of Eutaw and they have one son, Walter, Jr., age two and a half years.

Operates a Farm

The new Federation president owns and operates a farm in Dallas County and also owns a farm in Fayette County.

In accepting the Federation presidency, Randolph said, "The two big goals of the Farm Bureau in 1941 will be to sponsor activities and measures for improving the soils of Alabama's farms and to attain parity of income for Alabama's farmers."

Plans Announced For Observance Of Armistice Day

The community of Montevallo and Alabama College will unite next Monday in an Armistice Day program at Palmer Auditorium at 11 o'clock. The program is sponsored by Hendrick-Hudson Post No. 96 of the American Legion.

Hon. Ralph B. Parker, city attorney of Birmingham, will be the guest speaker.

Announcing the program in the Alabama College Bulletin, President Harman said Monday:

College to Cooperate

"The college, as usual, will cooperate with the local post of the American Legion in the celebration of Armistice Day November 11 at eleven o'clock. Classes for the eleven o'clock hour will be suspended. An extraordinary convocation is therefore called for these exercises. It is particularly appropriate that we assemble this year to re-express our faith in our government and to pay tribute to the men of America who so loyally were serving our country on the first Armistice Day, November 11, 1918."

The local post of the American Legion sincerely hopes that the people of the community will give us a good attendance at the exercises.

STORES TO CLOSE ON ARMISTICE DAY

The stores in Montevallo will be closed Monday, November 11, in observance of Armistice Day. Everyone is urged to do his trading before closing time next Saturday night.

Walter Shaw Is Victim Of Auto Accident

Wreck Is Also Fatal To Eugene Reynolds of Dry Valley, Driver Of the Car

All of Montevallo and surrounding communities mourn the tragic and untimely death of Mr. Walter M. Shaw, one of our universally loved and sterling business men. He passed away Sunday night at 9:30 at a hospital in Birmingham. He was 39 years of age and a member of one of Shelby County's most distinguished families.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the family residence in Aldrich, Rev. T. M. Davis, pastor of the Montevallo Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was in Montevallo Cemetery, with Johns Funeral Service in charge. Pallbearers were R. A. Reid, Eddie Watson, Irvin Jones-Williams, John R. Hardy, Jr., George Scott, Eddie Mahaffey, F. P. Givhan, and Dr. W. J. Mitchell.

The injuries which caused his death were sustained in an automobile accident Saturday night on the Birmingham highway north of Calera. He was on his way to Birmingham in his car with a young man, Eugene Reynolds from Dry Valley, driving for him. Getting out of control on a curve, the car left the road, turned over several times, and was completely demolished. Mr. Shaw and Mr. Reynolds were carried to the Birmingham hospital immediately. Mr. Shaw died Sunday night and Mr. Reynolds died Monday afternoon.

For several years Mr. Shaw has operated the Walter M. Shaw Insurance Agency in Montevallo. He had widespread connections in a business way throughout this section of Alabama. To know him was to love him. Every person who ever came into contact with him became his friend.

He was a deacon in the Montevallo Baptist Church. Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Ella Shaw; three brothers, P. J., Emmett, and Luther E. Shaw; one sister, Mrs. Agnes Henderson. His father, Mr. Pleasant J. Shaw, died about 5 years ago.

The regular meeting of Studiosis will be held in the dining room of Reynolds Hall on Tuesday, November 12, at 7:30 p.m. The subject for this meeting is "Studiosis Through the Years" and the speakers are Mrs. J. Alex Moore, Mrs. F. H. Hardy, and Miss Myrtle Brooke.

College Girls Assist At Children's Party

The young ladies who performed this service were Lillian Dunn, Mary Sterne, Mary Kimbrough, Doris Taylor, Frances Ward, Marjorie McKemie, Anita Motes, Mary Louise Morgan.

High School Community Fair Is An Outstanding Success

(By Mary Sterne)

Saturday morning, November 2, Montevallo High School opened its doors wide for the public to enter and observe one of the most striking examples of the progress of youth in Alabama. The occasion—a Community Fair lasting from 10:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.—brought out an enthusiastic crowd of citizens from Montevallo and surrounding vicinity. The vivid colors and attractive arrangement of booths mingled with the pervading air of excitement supplied by the student creators of the fair, made it an unforgettable scene and one extremely difficult to describe.

Registration Booth

Entering the front doors of the high school, the registration booth set up by the Spotlight, high school publication, was the first seen. Here, after registering, multi-colored copies of that paper were presented to visitors.

Behind the door in the auditorium itself the high school students were up on politics. Here was a booth where visitors registered their political preference and were given buttons for the candidate preferred. Unusual and clever cartoons of the major political figures adorned the sides and front.

"Boost Shelby County"

The first exhibit was titled "Boost Shelby County." Although the exhibit itself was splendid for its implication of the products of the county, the hobby of that class, a miniature circus, won first prize and captured a blue ribbon to hang on the wall of the Junior I home room.

Next the grand prize winner of the fair was the Harvest Home with an array of fruits, vegetables, and canned materials displayed on vivid crepe paper by Miss Utterback's Senior III class. As farming is the leading occupation in the community, the class voiced this as their

Democrats Win in Chilton

It was learned Wednesday morning that the Democrats won every county office in Chilton County. The campaign there had been unusually hot with a full roster of Republicans seeking to replace the Democrats.

Senator Karl Harrison Directing Annual Campaign; Meeting Held To Organize County Workers

The annual membership roll call for the American Red Cross in Shelby County will be conducted during the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving. Senator Karl Harrison of Columbiana is general roll call chairman for the county.

Mr. Harrison has contacted and interviewed key people in all communities of the county with a view toward setting up the roll call workers' organization. He was here last Friday with the national field representative, Mr. Harvey, and held a conference with Miss Myrtle Brooke, Shelby County Chapter chairman, and others interested.

Mr. Harrison has announced a meeting at the court house in Columbiana for Friday afternoon of this week at 3 o'clock, at which time the complete organization of roll call workers will be made and everything arranged to have the campaign started throughout the county on November 11.

Great Service Record

During the past year, as in other years of its history, the American Red Cross has made a great service record in extending relief to millions of unfortunate people at home and abroad. This service for preservation of life and prevention of suffering is supported by memberships of men and women who join the 3,700 Red Cross chapters and their 9,000 branches throughout America.

Many people in Shelby County had a part in supporting the Red Cross through membership last year. You are again urged to join the local chapter during the roll call period and have a part in the greatest movement on earth for the preservation of life and prevention of suffering.

Let us recall how the Red Cross has come to the aid of disaster victims in our own locality and remember when the dark days of tornado, accident and pestilence strike us again, it will be the Red Cross that comes to our aid first and with the most effective and systematic help. This will be made possible only by the annual memberships of millions of people like ourselves.

Join up and give the Red Cross your dollar. It is the best investment you can make.

Southard Named To Head College Publicity Directors

News of the appointment of Shelby E. Southard, publicity director of Alabama College, to serve as state director for the American College Publicity Association was received here yesterday from the organization headquarters.

Southard was appointed together with leading members of the organization over the country to direct the current membership campaign in their particular areas and will have charge of activities in this state.

Comprising 461 outstanding universities, junior colleges and teachers colleges of the nation, ACPA membership is headed by President Emerson Reck of Colgate University.

Now in its 24th year, the organization seeks to interpret the aims of higher education and issues a monthly magazine to members. In addition to district meetings the annual convention will move to the Pacific Coast for the first time on August 10, 1941, on the University of California campus in Berkeley. F. B. Skeele, news bureau director at the University of Southern California, is membership vice-president of ACPA.

reason for choosing such a theme, and also on mimeographed explanatory sheets gave their support as a class to any Shelby County project.

Next in line were booths of unusual attractiveness and showing expert craftsmanship. They were the Junior III's Better Homes for Less, which showed a colorful, thrifty bedroom in which all of the furniture and accessories were fixed or made by the students; an exhibit of tempting cakes, cookies, candies, pies and breads was zealously guarded by the girls of Junior III; a health exhibit offering free material and showing health trends was sponsored by the Junior III's; and a lovely little florist shop completed the right side of the auditorium.

Club Work

The midway was a useful as well as ornamental and informative display of club work in the high school, Girl Scouts, 4-H Club, Alabama College home economics, Farm Security, Home Demonstration and Conservation Department were all represented.

On the left side of the auditorium near the stage was one of the most splendid booths of the event—a display of miniature scenes to show by comparison what the aims of improvement of Montevallo and the high school should be. The class displaying this won the praise of many citizens.

Effort and Cooperation

Winning first prize for effort and cooperation was the adorable mother Goose House set up by the elementary schools. Inside of its block wall was a small room delighting the eye of every observer.

Needlecraft of students as well as townspeople was displayed by the Senior III group. An old antique shop sponsored by the Senior I class brought many valuable and

Music Teachers To Hold Meeting November 14

The Alabama Music Teachers' Association will hold its first fall meeting in history on November 14 and 15 on the campus of the University of Alabama. Music teachers in all Alabama Counties are being urged to send their reservations before November 10 to Mr. W. A. Vogel, head of the music department at the University, because this is a very important meeting.

According to Miss Katherine Farrah, of the School of Music at Alabama College, who is president of the Association, Alabama is rapidly becoming more music-conscious; music is being added to the curriculum of more schools; the state will soon have a state supervisor of music; and because of all these factors, she feels that it is imperative that Alabama music teachers meet now to plan how the Association will do the most to realize these new opportunities.

Other officers of the Association are Mr. Frank Church, Athens College, Athens, vice-president; Mr. York Kildea, Alabama College, Montevallo, recording secretary-treasurer; Mrs. H. G. Porter, Florence State Teachers College, Florence, corresponding secretary.

Among those who have been especially asked to participate in the discussions following the clinic demonstrations are: Mrs. Georgia Wagner Morgan, Montgomery; Mrs. H. G. Porter, Florence; Mrs. L. F. Jackson, Anniston; Mrs. Lula Nabors, Birmingham; Mr. York Kildea, Montevallo; Mrs. Alston Maxwell, Tuscaloosa.

1940 Call for Red Cross Recruits

The 1940 Poster of The American Red Cross sounds the call to the nation to serve humanity within the ranks of this army of mercy.

KEEPING step with the boys called to the colors in America's new defense army and navy, will be the American Red Cross, fulfilling its mission of service to the men in the line and to their loved ones at home, Chairman Norman H. Davis announced in Washington.

"Several thousand Red Cross nurses already have been called to the colors," Mr. Davis said, "and Red Cross field directors, and thousands of Red Cross workers in Chapters throughout the nation, are ready to help America's soldiers and sailors with personal problems, just as in the 1917-18 World War period."

"Every patriotic man and woman in the United States, who wants to do his or her share in upholding the national defense of our nation, can do so by sharing in the vitally important work of the Red Cross. Join as a member of the local Chapter, during the roll call, November 11 to 30, and through your support you will strengthen the Red Cross army of mercy."

"Recruits are needed not alone as members, but also as volunteer workers in the Red Cross Chapters."

Red Cross work will continue undiminished in its usual domestic program of relief in disaster; community public health nursing; safety education and promotion of the Junior Red Cross. An individual membership supports all of this work, not only in Red Cross Chapters, but in the nation. Relief to war victims in Europe is financed by the $20,000,000 war relief fund contributed by the public during the summer of 1940.

WAYS TO PRESERVE AND CAN PUMPKINS

Perhaps every homemaker knows how to make a pumpkin pie, but how many of them know how to can and preserve pumpkins for use the year around?

Replying to this question, Lavada Curtis extension specialist in food preservation, gives the following methods for canning and preserving pumpkins:

Wash, cut into sections, peel and cut into 1 to 1½ inch cubes. Add a small quantity of water and simmer until heated through, stirring occasionally. While hot pack it into containers, add one teaspoon of salt to each quart and cover with water in which cooked. Or, if desired, cut pumpkin into sections and bake or steam until heated through. Remove from shell and fill into containers while hot. Add one teaspoon salt to each quart and boiling water to cover.

Process immediately at 15 pounds pressure or 250 degrees F. in quart glass jars for 75 minutes, pint glass jars and No. 2 tin cans for 60 minutes and No. 3 cans for 70 minutes. If canning in tin, use the sanitary or R-enameled cans.

To make pumpkin preserves use 1 pound pumpkin, 1 pound sugar and one-fourth pint lemon juice.

Wash, pare and cut pumpkin into strips, then into thin shavings. Spread the chips on a platter, sprinkle with sugar and let stand eight to ten hours. Put in a porcelain kettle and cook slowly 1½ hours, until clear and tender. Skim, pack into sterilized jars and seal.

FARMERS REQUESTING FULL PARITY INCOME

Alabama farmers attending the annual meeting of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation in Birmingham endorsed full parity income for farmers and asked that "the loan levels for all basic farm commodities be raised to 100 per cent of parity" and "that funds be made available for making export payments so that American commodities can move freely in the world commerce at competitive prices."

"The time has come for the farmer to demand 100 per cent parity income from his commodities, so as to place himself in a position of economic parity with industry, which receives protected American wages for its efforts," they said in a resolution. "The farmer and his family are just as much entitled to an American standard of living as are the members of other groups."

All About Chilton County

Quite the most elaborate and complete sociological study and report upon a county is that about Chilton County which has just been issued as a bulletin of Alabama College, the State College for Women at Montevallo. It was prepared and published by the Alabama institution in cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics and presents an array of facts of great value about Chilton County. In an introduction to the bulletin Donald Comer, Alabama industrialist, and chairman of Alabama's ten-year plan committee, points out that a similar inventory of other Alabama counties would be most helpful in getting the planning program under way.

Several things in the bulletin made special impression upon him; for example, that community life so often finds its center in a rural church; that if a school is not nearby it is because the children are being carried to a consolidated school; that Negro neighborhoods follow the same pattern as the white neighborhoods and that members of this race when given the school opportunities support them loyally and faithfully.

This bulletin will prove an eye-opener to many persons regarding the extent and practical nature of the course in sociology being given to the young women who attend Montevallo. Each year more and more of them come forth to take up the welfare and social service work that has now become such a science and such an integral part of government, in city, county, state and nation.—Alabama Journal.

NO STRAIT-JACKET FOR HIM!

Preparation For Birmingham's Carnival Begins

Birmingham today gave impetus to preparations for its eleventh annual Christmas Carnival—one that officials plan to make the most elaborate and beautiful yet held. Beginning on November 21, the carnival will sweep the city into a festive atmosphere lasting three days. The glamorous memory of childhood will be recalled in the theme, "Christmas in Story and Song."

Pretty Theda Wyatt so admirably represented Montevallo as its princess last year that Birmingham is looking forward to greeting another lovely young lady in the coming event. As the parade plans neared completion, carnival officials were preparing to entertain the largest crowd ever to attend the festival. Another large delegation of visitors is expected from Montevallo.

In no other year has the carnival been planned more specifically for the enjoyment of both children and adults. No one ever grows too old to enjoy the madcap adventures of Alice in Wonderland; everyone remembers the thrills of the Thief of Bagdad, and the quaint beauty of Little Black Sambo and Christmas in the Quarters. No one ever grows too old to sing carols.

Both children and adults will be intrigued by the colorful array of floats, which will revolve around the theme. There will be twenty of these in the parade, all recalling some Christmas memory to grown-ups, and bringing new wonders to children.

The most elaborate float will be that of the king and queen, finished in a bright metallic effect set against a golden background. It will be in the form of a Grecian galley, and oars will protrude from its sides along the hull.

Timber is a crop just like cotton or corn and farmers should not overlook the farm woodland when making their farm plans, says Rufus Page, Jr., extension forester.

A farmer who manages his woodland and protects it from fire may harvest regular crops of sawlogs, poles, piling, and staves. He gets ties, pulpwood, and fuel wood from the inferior trees which he cuts to improve his stand. He should sell by board feet rather than for a lump sum and he should select and mark the trees to be cut. When farm woodlands receive the serious attention of every owner they will show good returns for the attention, he says.

Cotton Crop Much Larger Than Last Year's

The 1940-41 world's cotton crop is placed tentatively at 30,500,000 bales, compared with 28,900,000 bales last year.

Of this apparent increase of 1,600,000 bales over the crop of 1939-40, about 1,000,000 bales are accounted for by the increase in the United States crop. This estimate was 12,741,000 bales as compared with a crop of 11,817,000 bales in 1939-40.

The 1940-41 crop in Russia is placed at 4,300,000 bales, compared with 4,050,000 bales last year; the Turkey crop at 360,000 bales against 300,000 bales last year; the Iranian crop at 230,000 bales compared with 184,000 bales a year ago; the southeastern Europe crop of 172,000 bales compared with 154,000 bales last season; the British Indian crop at 4,200,000 bales last season against 4,136,000 bales in 1939-40; and the Chinese crop at more than 2,200,000 bales compared with an abnormally low crop of 1,900,000 bales last year.

The aggregate 1940-41 crop for all Latin American countries is tentatively placed at 3,240,000 bales compared with 3,145,000 bales in 1939-40. The crop in Belgian Congo, French Equatorial Africa, and Mozambique in Africa is placed at 300,000 bales against 240,000 bales last year.

The Egyptian crop is expected to be at least as large as last year's production of 1,801,000 bales. For all of the other cotton-producing regions in Africa combined, the 1940-41 crop is tentatively calculated at 685,000 bales against 695,000 bales last year.

FARMERS TO ELECT AAA COMMITTEEMEN IN NOVEMBER

Some 1500 community AAA committeemen will be elected by Alabama farmers during the week of November 18, announces A. W. Jones, state AAA administrative officer.

During the week farmers in each community of the state will elect three committeemen to assist AAA officials in administering various phases of the 1941 AAA program. They also will elect one delegate in each community to attend a county convention during which the county committeemen for 1941 will be selected. The county conventions will be held immediately following the election of community committeemen and delegates.

The new county and community committeemen will assume their duties on December 1, 1940, as the new 1941 AAA program starts at that time.

Mrs. G. K. Ward and Miss Edith Nell Ward spent the week end with relatives in Tallassee and Phenix City.

Mr. Cowherd's Address

The editor of The Times took the opportunity last Saturday to hear the address of Mr. Yelverton Cowherd. We wish that every other person in town might have done likewise. In fact, we think the merchants in particular would have profited (not in dollars) by it.

Mr. Cowherd spoke as representative of the C. I. O. He was invited by the Montevallo Merchants Association in connection with the Trade Expansion Celebration. The speaker and his speech certainly deserved a better audience than was accorded him.

Montevallo is concerned about getting better acquainted with all of the people around here. The C. I. O. miners constitute one of the largest of our neighbor groups. Mr. Cowherd spoke for them. He told about how the miners feel toward Montevallo and outlined what the miners would like to develop along the line of better and closer friendly relations with Montevallo.

Those discussions in his talk were, we thought, most timely and were presented in a spirit that makes us feel that the miners are ready to do their part in making Montevallo and its environs a better place in which to live and make a living.

We commend the merchants for the efforts in this direction last week. Their program was fine.

But personally, The Times cannot refrain from expressing the wish that our people had shown more interest in that phase of the subject which Mr. Cowherd represented at our invitation.

The Fair Was A Big Success

The Montevallo Community Fair last week was a success, even beyond the expectations of its most ardent promoters.

Capacity of the high school was taxed to the limit to provide space for the profusion of exhibits. One would never have thought our farms are producing so many fine things until that magnificent collection was gathered together.

The arrangement of everything was superb. Judging by the rather aged faces of Bill Tidwell and some of the teachers, it was evident that there was lots of work required, but all of them declared they enjoyed doing it.

Attendance of many hundreds of visitors gave proof that our people are interested in supporting the fair. The occasion fitted exactly into the program of the Montevallo merchants to get better acquainted with one another.

We nominate the Community Fair for a permanent annual place in the scheme of things in Montevallo. Let's start now to get ready for it next year. The start has been so good, there is no telling what we may do if we keep on using our ideas and our opportunities.

TO AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

Mr. Automobile Driver, we feel that some of you don't realize that we have over 300 children in our small space for play. Sometimes we might be so excited in our games that our ball may go into the street and some one may forget to look for the traffic.

We will try to remember not to get in the street, but please sir, will you mind driving more slowly by our school? We will cooperate with you, and won't you cooperate with us? Thank you. — The Echo, Montevallo Elementary School.

Armistice And Legion Week

Montgomery, Ala.—Gov. Frank M. Dixon last week proclaimed November 11 as Armistice Day—the week following as American Legion Week—and designated the coming Christmas as "Cotton Christmas." Purpose of the "Cotton Christmas" designation is to encourage the giving of gifts made of cotton, he said.

The Armistice Day proclamation follows:

"Whereas, November 11, 1940, will mark another anniversary of Armistice Day, and the close of the first World War; and,

"Whereas, our nation today, while earnestly hoping for peace, is making preparation on a gigantic scale for national defense; and,

"Whereas, our young men are now being called to the colors as never before in peace time, and full preparation is under way for the defense of our nation on land and sea and in the air; and,

"Whereas, the fighting spirit of our nation is now facing tests, even as in 1917 and 1918; and,

"Whereas, it is particularly fitting and proper at this time to call to mind the heroic deeds of that host of our young men who fearlessly followed the American flag in our last great war:

"Now, therefore, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby proclaim Monday, November 11, 1940, as Armistice Day, and I hereby designate the week of November 4-11, 1940, as American Legion Week, and urge that the same be appropriately observed throughout the state with patriotic programs, and that all of our citizens cooperate fully with the American Legion in its special activities of that week, re-dedicating ourselves to the cause of peace, but solemnly resolved that no fear of war shall deter us from the full performance of our duties in this time of stress."

LANSING HATFIELD

Lansing Hatfield, Southern Baritone, To Sing Here

Lansing Hatfield, young, romantic, Virginia-born baritone, will sing at Alabama College November 15. Radio listeners heard him several times last season when he replaced Nelson Eddy on a popular variety hour.

Still in his twenties, Lansing Hatfield's career has been brief but significant.

The past two concert seasons bear witness to his rapid rise. Unknown a few years ago, during 1938-39 the baritone filled 40 engagements; during 1939-40, the number rose to 49. Included in the engagements were appearances at the Worcester and Bangor Festivals, with the New York Oratorio Society in the Bach B Minor Mass and with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony in the Bach St. Matthew Passion, in the American Lyric Theatre productions of "The Devil and Daniel Webster" and "Susanna, Don't You Cry." At the St. Louis Municipal Opera he sang two summers; during 1939 he starred in "Rose Marie," "Mary," "Song of the Flame," and "Victoria and Her Hussars"; during 1940 he was featured in "Rio Rita" and "Apple Blossoms."

Hatfield received a B. A. degree at Lenoir Rhyne College and it was there, for the first time, that he began to study singing with Miss Cere Grothe. Later he won the Woods scholarship to Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, studying under Frank Bibb and earning a living on the side as church soloist and hotel singer. Next, as winner of a Texaco contest, he received a prize of a thousand dollars. Eventually he emerged as finalist in the National Federation of Music Clubs contest and sang with the winning quartet in New York City.

Civic Club Holds Regular Meeting

The Montevallo Civic Club held its regular meeting Wednesday at the Methodist Church. President J. L. Appleton presided.

The club accepted the invitation of Dr. Harman to meet at Reynolds Hall November 27 as guests of the college. Members will bring their ladies to this meeting.

The next regular meeting scheduled for November 20 will be dispensed with. Its place will be taken by the meeting at the college on the 27th.

Miss Louise Lovelady, student at Alabama College, spoke to the club on the American Red Cross. She represented the publicity committee for the Shelby County Chapter in discussing the history of the Red Cross. Her speech was closed with an impressive appeal to her audience to respond to the call for membership in the annual roll call to be conducted from Armistice to Thanksgiving.

Dr. A. F. Harman, recently returned from his vacation and some other trips of a professional nature, relayed to the club a couple of the choice stories he picked up in the course of his travels.

Says A Newspaper:

tiques and relics before the eyes of visitors.

The stage was set up as a typical community store where favors, food and excellent service could be had for a small fee. Visitors patronizing the store sat at tables covered with red checked cloths. Music was furnished by students and by the use of the public address system was constantly heard.

Perhaps the most individual and original piece of work was the huge figure of Uncle Sam which stood high over the fair and tipped his hat continually to greet all who came.

Climax of the fair was the auction of cakes, pies, and candies by Dr. Gordon McCloskey, professor of economics at the college. At this time the auditorium was filled with spectators who responded with interest to the auction, and who lingered afterwards until 10:30 to watch the booths being taken down and to comment upon the success of this part of the Montevallo Trade Expansion Week.

A great show arranged and carried out by Montevallo students, directed by Mr. Tidwell, the fair is a promise not easily forgotten—for it promises to Montevallo and its surrounding communities excellent citizens of the future.

Lansing Hatfield To Sing Here Friday

Memories of the famous feud between the Hatfields and the McCoy's in the Virginia mountains a generation ago were fanned into life this week on the campus at Alabama College when the girls there heard that one member of these famous feuding families — Lansing Hatfield—is to sing for them the night of November 15.

Although Lansing Hatfield is a strapping youth six feet one inch tall, he admits that he was never an active participant in this famous affray which made things lively for many years between the two families.

Handsome and likable, young Hatfield has become one of the romantic figures of the American concert stage with his deep booming baritone voice and his winning personality and good manners.

Born in Virginia

Born in Franklin, Virginia, educated in North Carolina at Lenoir Rhyne College, Hatfield started his serious musical studies at the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore where he won a whole series of local and national prizes.

Wherever Lansing Hatfield appears, the results are the same. Everybody likes to hear him sing, everybody warms to his personality. This young Southerner is unspoiled by his early success, is full of energy and vitality. "I like a singer to come on the stage like he means it," he says.

Five years ago he went to New York and there got a chance to sing in the Rockefeller-produced musical extravaganza, "Virginia." Then came an appearance on the air with Grace Moore, a dozen concert engagements, and an engagement for the role of dinky "Joe" singing "Ol' Man River" in "Show Boat" at New York's Randall's Island.

Wins Critics' Praise

In the spring of 1939 in New York City Hatfield attracted public attention, won praise from both dramatic and music critics, when he starred in the first two Broadway productions of the newly formed American Lyric Theatre. Young Hatfield played and sang the role of Webster in the Douglas Moore-Stephen Vincent Benet opera, "The Devil and Daniel Webster." He also was featured in "Susanna Don't You Cry," by Clarence Loomis and Sarah Newmayer, based on melodies of Stephen Foster. Here Hatfield was the villain, Brian Tolliver.

During the summers of 1939 and 1940 Hatfield went to St. Louis where he was a leading member of the St. Louis Municipal Opera, singing in "Rose Marie," "Mary," "Song of the Flame," "Victoria and Her Hussars," "Rio Rita," and "Apple Blossoms."

Noted Sculptor To Lecture At College

With Miss Ann Weaver, one of the South's outstanding sculptors, as their guest on Thursday of this week, students at Alabama College will have an opportunity to observe how a modern sculptor goes about her work. Miss Weaver will speak at a convocation program Thursday at noon on "Modern Sculpture," and in the afternoon she will demonstrate the procedure of the sculptor during a typical day in her studio, when she works in Bloch Hall as guest of the art department.

She has studied at the National Academy of Design and Cooper Union under such teachers as Charles Keck, Charles Rudy and John Hovannes. The Carnegie Foundation has awarded Miss Weaver two art scholarships for travel in Europe. She has exhibited in New York City at the Museum of Modern Art, at the Seligmann Galleries, and the Whitney Museum.

This lecture is the first of a series of lectures, demonstrations, and exhibitions which will be sponsored by Alabama College in recognition of "American Art for Every Home," a program sponsored by the federal government.

SHELBY COUNTY LIBRARY TO OPEN FRIDAY

The official opening of the Shelby County Library will be held Friday morning, November 15, at 10 o'clock at the court house, Columbiana.

An interesting program is planned and a large attendance is expected.

Land Owners Are Urged To List Their Land With Farm Security Administration

If you have farm land in Shelby County you would like to sell, and this land is fertile enough to produce a profitable crop, James N. Dennis, local Farm Security Administration supervisor, has an announcement that ought to be interesting.

"Sometime soon a few Shelby County tenant farmers are going to be climbing up to the status of land owners via the government's tenant-purchase program fathered by the Bankhead-Jones Act," Supervisor Dennis said. "Each of these farmers will have his eye out for a family-type farm, one that is large enough to supply food and feed for his family and stock, one that will provide enough labor to keep his family busy, and one that will give him cash enough to buy other items that can't be home-grown.

"These farms must be fertile enough, too, so that the family can save out of the crop money each year to meet the payment of interest, principal, taxes and insurance on the purchase loans secured by the federal government," said Supervisor Dennis.

"It is the applicant's job to find his own farm," he continued. "These families enter an agreement that stretches amortized interest and principal payments over a period of forty years. And forty years is a mighty long time to spend on

Through splendid cooperation, the Navy has been well presented to the public, and upstanding young men of intelligence obtained to man our men-of-war, insuring maximum efficiency at a time when it is most needed. These young men are now receiving military instructions, and later will attend a trade school to learn a trade used in all walks of life, which will contribute towards their becoming useful citizens and credits to their communities.

Young men who have registered are eligible for naval service up to the time called into training in the Army. Due to the expansion of the Navy on the east as well as the west coast, numerous opportunities are open to ambitious young men of this nation. It is urged that all those interested apply early. The quota for November is unlimited, requiring very little waiting time to complete necessary papers. For first-hand information write or contact the Navy recruiting station, Post Office Building, Birmingham.

Re-training Institute Participated In By Musicians From Every Part of The State

With the meeting Friday of the state advisory committee, the Re-training Institute for WPA musicians held on the campus of Alabama College all last week came to an end.

According to Miss Christine McCann, state supervisor of the music project in Alabama, the purpose of the Re-training Institute was to preserve the skills of the musicians by a brief, intensive review of their particular fields. The faculty of the School of Music collaborated with Miss McCann in this work, and approximately forty musicians from all parts of Alabama attended the Institute.

They visited classes, participated in orchestra and glee club rehearsal, observed teaching methods and were free to select from the work going on those sections which it was felt would do them the most good.

From A. B. Baxley

Dear Editor:

I wish to speak through the columns of your paper my sincere, heart-felt thanks for the "faithful few" that stood by me and fought and voted for a principle involved in the election November 5, 1940. I have always tried to be a good sport and take my defeat if it comes to me honestly—when it comes otherwise "God in Heaven will render to every man his just reward." Like the Apostle Paul, I can say, "I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith."

Two days before the election nearly everybody in the county believed that I would be elected to the probate office, and I think that I could even include the Probate Judge himself. Then during those two days something happened that mystified Democrats and Republicans. No one, except the shrewdest politicians, believed that so much could be done in two days. But we are living in a fast age. Look at that absentee ballot box 401 to 15! Ain't that going some?

Well, I still believe in the two party system even though one be very much in the minority, but I had rather be right than be Probate Judge. Our Savior was very much in the minority when he was crucified.

But friends, we have elected Mr. L. C. Walker Probate Judge of our county. He is your Probate Judge, he is mine. We shall live with, and work with him. However, our real fight has just begun. Stand by until the people of Shelby County may see that money and might do not make things right.

Thanking you again for your warm friendship and for the many expressions of sympathy and good wishes for the future, I am

Gratefully yours

A. B. BAXLEY.

The Baptist W. M. S. met in the home of Mrs. M. R. Hogan, Sr., Tuesday night for the program meeting. Mrs. B. B. Curry was in charge of a very interesting program.

Miss Frances Bassett spent the week end at home.

Farmers Planning To Produce More Livestock

Alabama's 1941 livestock program calls for assistance to some 6,031 farmers with beef calf production, placing of 429 purebred beef bulls, and increasing Alabama's sheep and pork production. This program was planned by the 67 county agents, their assistants, the home agents, and W. H. Gregory, extension livestock specialist.

Some beef calves will be slaughtered in this state, but many will be sold to some of the northern feeders who will make finished steers of them. Agents plan to aid 823 farmers and 1,613 4-H clubsters with fattening cattle for the various shows.

Lambs are one of the few agricultural products selling at parity and agents plan to encourage 271 farmers in this production. Some 19,000 farmers will receive aid in the proper methods of pig production, including time of breeding, sanitation measures and care and management of the sow and pigs. Over 3,000 4-H Club members will improve the stock of hogs by raising purebred gilts and boars.

Not So Much Rubbin' and Scrubbin' IN THIS HOME

THERE won't be a great deal of wood-work washing in the kitchen of an attractive home like this; and yet, the kitchen will always seem to have that fresh look. The secret—or have you already guessed it? will be the fact that the kitchen is completely electrified—the kind of a kitchen where woodwork, walls, curtains, stay clean longer; where "kitchen headaches" are rare.

Other things that can contribute to the livability of this home are plenty of convenience outlets for the use of sewing machine, vacuum cleaner, numerous reading and decorative lamps. An electric ventilating fan to make cooling breezes during the hot summer months, and a mechanical stoker to provide even, economical warmth during the winter. An electric washing machine to do those quick emergency jobs when necessity doesn't permit waiting for the laundry man, and for laundering those silken things that many women will trust to no hands other than their own.

Are You Thinking of Building a New Home or Remodeling Your Present One?

We are not home planners, but many builders of new homes have told us that our suggestions regarding the electrical facilities in them were helpful in making the home more comfortable and livable, and contributed to its interior beauty.

NEW SOIL CONSERVATION ENDORSED BY AGENCIES

The 1941 Handbook of Alabama Agriculture now being prepared by the State Extension Service and Alabama's new five year soil conservation program received enthusiastic endorsement of the Alabama Chapter, U. Once the agreement has been signed, a landowner selling to tenant-purchase clients finds advantages not always present in connection with commercial sales. If he happens to be tilling adjoining acres, he acquires a stable neighbor, one who will be keeping his land ditched and terraced, one who will be eager to join with him in cooperative efforts for community improvement, better marketing facilities, etc.

If the landowner happens to be in business in the trading area, he will profit from added impetus to the community's trade. If he happens to be selling out of his old home county, he can be satisfied with knowing he is leaving behind a stable, ambitious farm family that will fill his place.

TIGER vs BULLDOG

Montevallo High's Bulldog eleven tangles with the Chilton County Tigers for the Tigers final game of the season. Last year the game was played to a tie, and despite this fact the writer takes the Tiger to be on top of the Bulldog by six points when the trumpet sounds. A good game for anyone who likes a hard fought game.

Another writer disagrees with the above statement, and bets two-bits the game is just reverse to the above prediction.

To protect the law-abiding retailers—who represent the great majority of Alabama's 1,842 outlets—the beer industry and the Alabama ABC Board keep a close watch for "offside" dealers. Those who persist in violating the rules are eliminated. That's fair play for all!

L. H. King Succeeds C. A. Pruett As Sanitation Officer

Mr. L. H. King has entered upon his duties as sanitation officer of Shelby County, succeeding Mr. C. A. Pruett. Duties of the sanitation office are of a public service nature under the county health officer, Dr. Sloan.

Mr. King was a visitor to Montevallo Monday in the course of his official duties. He wishes the people of Shelby County to know of the services he is prepared to give them. "We serve where we are wanted," he said, "and if any citizen of the county has a sanitation problem, we hope he will call on our department for the help and assistance that is yours for the asking."

"We are prepared," he said, "to furnish any citizen of the county, rural or urban, free plans and advice about any sanitation project that may be desired. After such projects are constructed, we furnish free inspection to see that the same conforms to the requirements of state laws."

Mr. King pointed out and stressed three fundamental sanitation requirements that should be provided in every home: (1) Approved type of disposal for human waste. (2) Protected water supply. (3) Adequate screening.

Shelby County rates among the lowest in Alabama on the sanitation chart. We can improve that condition by using the services that are offered through our county health department.

Study Club Sponsors Christmas Lights

The Montevallo Study Club is again sponsoring the Christmas lighting movement in Montevallo, and committees have begun to work upon solicitation of contributions to provide money for expense of the project.

The merchants have agreed to handle the job of putting up and taking down the street lighting fixtures.

It is announced that Alabama College this year will add a very attractive feature to our lighting scheme by erecting a huge lighted star upon some place of prominence on the campus.

The Study Club committees hope that everybody will be ready to make contributions promptly when called upon so that the lights may be put up not later than December 1.

Studiosis Through The Years

In paying tribute to "Studiosis Through the Years," it is eminently fitting that those gallant women, the charter members, should be especially honored.

At the call of Mrs. James Lacey (Conradine Skraggs) McConaughy, nine other forward-looking women of Montevallo met on Friday, October 11, 1895, just a year and a day before the opening of what is now Alabama College, and organized the Ladies' Literary Circle, which at the next meeting, was enthusiastically renamed the Montevallo Studiosis.

These founders were Mrs. J. L. McConaughy, Mrs. C. W. Cary, Mrs. E. S. Lyman, Mrs. G. W. Morgan, Mrs. J. D. Trammell, Mrs. W. B. Reynolds, Miss Hattie Lyman, Miss Pauline Acker (later Mrs. W. K. Lyman), Miss Bertie Allen, and Miss Bessie Allen.

Of these, only two still reside in Montevallo, Mrs. E. S. Lyman and Mrs. G. W. Morgan. Although they long ago severed their connection with Studiosis, they are still vital forces in the community where they have spent their whole lives and where their friends are legion.

Baptists And Methodists Lead In Church Census

In a religious census of the student body of Alabama College made this month it was found that Baptists, Methodists, and Presbyterians outnumbered other churches by a sizeable majority. These three denominations accounted for well over three-fourths of the number of students enrolled.

Also among the student body are members of nine other sects: Episcopal, Church of Christ, Catholic, Christian, Christian Science, Lutheran, Jewish, and Congregationalist.

Only 11 students, approximately 1 per cent of the student body, professed membership in or preference for no church.

Mr. C. H. Fore of Clanton was a visitor in town Monday.

Mr. Deacon Gregg of Birmingham visited friends here Monday.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

A community Thanksgiving service will be held at the Montevallo Methodist Church at 9:00 o'clock Thursday morning. Rev. T. M. Davis, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will preach the sermon. All the people of the community are cordially invited to attend.

One of the loveliest events of the season was the tea given by Mrs. G. P. Rogan and Mrs. M. P. Jeter at the home of the former, in honor of Miss Margaret Evans, bride-elect.

Arrangements of chrysanthemums in pastel shades were used effectively in the living and dining rooms.

Mrs. Doris L. Jeter, wearing ecru lace, greeted the guests at the door. In the receiving line were Mrs. Rogan, wearing black chiffon and net; the honoree, in aqua marine satine with a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds; Mrs. H. R. Evans, mother of the bride, wearing blue lace.

The beautifully appointed table was covered with a handmade lace cover and centered with a crystal bowl of pink rosebuds and white pon-pon chrysanthemums. Crystal candelabra holding pink tapers were placed at each end.

Mrs. R. H. Russell, wearing a gown of lavender marquisette, poured tea. She was assisted by Mrs. Roy B. Hicks, in blue taffeta; Miss Elizabeth Harrison, in old rose and blue taffeta; Miss Lowrey Turner, in pink marquisette; and Miss Mary Louise Evans, wearing black taffeta; and Miss Virginia Evans, in powder blue chiffon.

Mrs. F. H. Frost, in ashes of roses chiffon, and Mrs. R. A. Reid, wearing black net, and Miss Julia Rogan displayed the many lovely gifts.

Miss Hazel Maudling, dressed in black net, kept the bride's book where about 60 guests registered during the appointed hours.

The Montevallo Study Club co-operated with the Town Forum to provide a program of games and dancing at the high school on November 13. Mrs. W. F. Tidwell, Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, and Dr. W. D. Jackson have expressed satisfaction with the reception of this first effort.

Various games were played in which high scores were as follows: Dart throwing, Mr. T. V. Peete and Mr. Merchant.

Tenpins, women, Mrs. Merchant and Mrs. W. M. Davis; men, Mr. J. L. Appleton, Rev. T. M. Davis, and Mr. Roy B. Hicks.

Mr. Raymond Conway claimed the crown in playing checkers.

County Library Needs Novels

The Shelby County Library was opened officially at Columbiana Friday, November 14. President A. F. Harman of Alabama College made an inspiring address on "Books."

Branches of the county library will be located at Siluria, Wilton, Aldrich, Pea Ridge, Maylene, and other communities.

The library still needs novels. Each novel you give will be matched by a 50-cent WPA grant for the library.

Books you will not use again at home may be deposited at the Montevallo Times office, from where they will be sent to the county library.

PETE JARMAN HERE

Congressman Pete Jarman passed through Montevallo late Saturday evening on his way to meet an engagement in Columbiana. He only had time to stop for a few minutes in Montevallo. Mr. Jarman is in fine fettle. We were sorry to learn from him that Mrs. Jarman was confined to her home in Washington, suffering from a shoulder injury sustained in a fall recently. The Congressman was going to Montgomery late Saturday night to see his father-in-law, Judge Charles Bricken, and back to Washington Sunday for the sessions of Congress this week.

LEGION AUXILIARY

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held Friday afternoon, November 22, at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Fred Frost. All members are urged to be present.

New Shell Station To Open Here

Dr. P. C. Wilson announces that he has entered into a contract with Shell Petroleum Co. for the construction and long-time lease of a new gasoline service station to be built on his property at the corner of Middle and Valley Streets, next to the bus station.

Construction will begin in a few days, he says, and the building will be completed as quickly as possible.

This will be a modern automobile service station, complete and up-to-date in every respect. The spacious corner lot on which it is to be located affords plenty of room for ample driveways to the street on two sides.

Mr. Marshall Burgin, proprietor of the Montevallo Tire Co., will operate the new Shell place. His present business of selling tires and auto accessories will be moved to the new location and continued in connection with the sale of Shell petroleum products.

College Is Host To Athletic Meeting

Alabama College, through its Recreation Association, played host last week end to the Alabama Federation of Women's Athletic Associations in their annual conference.

Miss Bobby Brabston, of Birmingham, a physical education major, is president of the student Recreation Association, and had charge of plans for this meeting.

Among the features enjoyed by those attending were a supper at the college camp house and movie party, and a concert by the young Southern baritone, Lansing Hatfield.

Among those on the membership list of the association invited to send delegates were University of Alabama, Huntingdon, Auburn, Birmingham-Southern, Judson, Snead Junior College, Florence State Teachers College, Livingston State Teachers College, as well as other colleges in the state.

The business sessions of this three-day program were held in the College Union Building, Reynolds Hall. Up for discussion were such subjects as "Sports Day," "Program Planning for Women's Athletics," "Badminton," "Home-made Equipment," and "The Athletic Phases of Co-Recreation." Taking part on the program were members of the health and physical education faculty of Alabama College, and representatives from Birmingham-Southern, Huntingdon, Auburn, and Florence State Teachers College.

F. D. R. Urges U. S. Support For Red Cross

President Roosevelt describes obligations to program of national defense

Washington, D. C.—Declaring that the American Red Cross has "an essential place in the great program of national defense," President Roosevelt urged "all who can possibly do so" to support the annual roll call.

Red Cross chapters throughout the nation launched the annual appeal for membership Armistice Day. The roll call ends November 30.

"The annual membership roll call of the American Red Cross, which is about to begin," the chief executive stated, "is vitally important to all of our citizens. As an auxiliary to all of our armed forces, the Red Cross has an essential place in the great program of national defense in which we are now engaged."

"Our people have learned through the years to turn to the Red Cross for practical aid in any emergency and that high trust always has been fulfilled. Behind this great voluntary relief organization is a record of public service, both in time of war and peace, which makes it an inseparable part of our national life."

"Under its congressional charter one of the primary duties of the Red Cross is to render aid to our armed forces and to act as a medium of communication between them and the people of the United States. The rapid expansion of our defense man-power calls, therefore, for a corresponding increase in Red Cross service to our soldiers, sailors, and their families at home. Modern warfare, in transferring the tragedy of the battlefield, with all its suffering and destruction, to the heart of civilian populations, has emphasized the importance to our civil defense of such Red Cross services as home nursing, first aid and emergency relief."

In Shelby County

Senator Karl Harrison, of Columbiana, is chairman of the Red Cross roll call membership campaign in Shelby County. He has organized the work in every community. All of our people will have a chance to wear the Red Cross membership button which is a "symbol of our national unity against the forces of destruction and misery."

Keep Out of Way Of The Fire Truck

By request of Mayor F. P. Givhan, The Times publishes the following plea to the people of Montevallo:

"Please keep your cars off the streets when the fire alarm is sounded until the fire engine has gotten out of its place and gone to the scene of the fire."

By properly observing this request we can be of most help. Instead of cranking up our cars and starting helter skelter looking for the fire, we should, if on the street when the alarm is sounded, immediately park and stay put until the truck gets to the fire.

The firemen and the truck are what is needed at a fire as quickly as they can get there. We should stay out of their way.

What good purpose is to be served anyway by a wholesale gathering of women and children and helpless men at a fire? Actually it is a hindrance to effective work of the fire department in lots of cases. No one, however, would try to deny to anybody the right to go and see a fire. But those who insist on going should not try to get there ahead of the truck and firemen.

New Shell Station

Another important business development is announced for Montevallo. Dr. P. C. Wilson is to build a filling station on his property near the bus station. It will be leased to Shell Petroleum Co. and is to be operated by Marshall Burgin. For the past year Mr. Burgin has conducted his tire and accessory business here with marked success. With Shell he will have much greater facilities for business and we predict his success will be enlarged in the same proportions.

Christmas Lights

Montevallo is to be lit up again this Christmas. The Study Club is sponsor of the movement. They are the founders of it. The merchants have agreed to take responsibility for putting up and taking down the lighting equipment on the streets. The ladies will raise the expense money by solicitation among the people. They are already at work. Get ready to contribute so they can have the lights up by December 1.

College To Join In

It is announced that Alabama College will join the Christmas light plan this year by erecting a huge electrically lighted star on top of one of the campus buildings or maybe on the water tower. This will be an impressive addition as the star will be placed where it may be seen for miles.

Sanitation Officer

Montevallo has had a visit by Mr. King, new sanitation officer of the county health department. In talking with him we seem to have a hunch he is the man for us to get hooked up with in combatting our fly and mosquito menace. True, the cold weather will take care of that for a while, but we should begin now to plan with Mr. King so we will be ready to swat the fly and mosquito upon his first appearance, return warm weather.

Red Cross Roll Call

County chairman, Senator Karl Harrison, announces the following local people to head the solicitation campaign for Red Cross memberships in Montevallo: For the residential district, Mrs. E. P. Hood; for the business district, Mrs. J. P. Kelly. Solicitation of membership on the Alabama College campus is in charge of Miss Conn.

Build Shelby County

Columbiana

Three more schools have made definite moves to cooperate in the program to Build Shelby County under plans of the County Council. The students of Miss Mary Peters at Columbiana are making a special study of how to provide better sanitation for homes, schools, and communities. These young people are going to make recommendations for action. Next week we hope to have their names on our honor roll.

At Calera

Principal Fred Allen and Mr. A. B. Baxley have sponsored two P. T. A. meetings at which plans for helping the Calera school to cooperate in building Shelby County were discussed.

Siluria

Principal William Poe proudly shows a lunch room which has been painted with inexpensive paint and decorated with padded seats and curtains by Mrs. Rogan's home economics class. Here are more names which will soon go on the "Build Shelby County" honor roll.

Montevallo

Montevallo High School is at work on a cuttings bed which will provide shrubbery for hundreds of nearby homes. "Shelby County is going up" is the slogan at Montevallo. The recent community fair was a splendid demonstration at this school.

THE POCKETBOOK
of KNOWLEDGE BY TOPPS

Winter Road Prospects

More or less apprehension prevails over the prospects of some bad roads in this section of Alabama during the approaching winter.

In the case of the road to Centreville, State Highway 25, which is under construction, the big question is will it be completed before bad weather sets in? If it is not completed, it means that the road will be almost impossible to use until next spring.

Traffic on the Montgomery Highway south of Calera is facing the same question about the road between Thorsby and Coopers. It is now under construction. The recent rains have already caused the State Highway Department to warn autoists to avoid that section. What condition does it offer for winter? It will be bad unless surfaced.

Closer home to Montevallo we hear some fears expressed about our road up to Siluria. Last week the rains put this road in an ugly shape, and it is an interesting guess as to how it will stand the winter. Some say it should be worked over at once—others declare the best plan is to let it alone.

Of course, if worst comes, we can go around by Calera, but that is a long way around. Then, too, we can stay in Montevallo, which, by the way, is a good thing to do when we get ready to spend our money.

The gap in the highway to Columbiana will not worry travelers any more. It is fixed—finished out with black-top surface.

Kapsoon Kim Writes To Friends

The following letter of general interest was addressed by Miss Kapsoon Kim to her friends at Alabama College and Montevallo. Miss Kim, now returned to her native Korea, spent the past two years here.

Dear Friends,

I don't know how to start or where; for I am afraid that this letter will be business like and I hate to be so.

So many things I have to tell and so many things I have to thank which of course I never can express it fully.

Since I have left you, dear friends, I was quite well both physically and spiritually. I had a grand time and grand experience during summer both at Blue Ridge and at Lisle, New York. Specially Lisle was the most unusual conference I have ever had. I wish someone in your cabinet could go next summer. I left on Aug. 3rd from San Francisco, so that was my last goodbye to U. S. It has already been a month and a half since I got back home. Indeed it is a grand feeling to meet my family and all old friends of my home-land again after two years of absence, you can hardly imagine. But I am still thinking of friends of Ala. College who have been so kind and loving to me for the last two years. Telling the truth, the more days pass, the more I am getting homesick for Ala. College. I can visualize happenings and autumn scenes in Montevallo. I can hear the beautiful music and also step-singing. Everything seems so near to me and yet it is so far away in reality.

Even though I cannot express my thanks fully well, I don't want to be rude without saying a word. It has been a wonderful experience for me. I dare to say that I was perfectly happy during last two years, and none can deny that it was purely due to your love and friendship. It will not only be great experience, but also a lovely memory for all my life and I will keep it precious. As I said in the beginning of this letter, mere words cannot express my feeling and my thanks fully.

I like my work very well. It is library work in the college. The college is a girls' college, and it's similar to your junior college. It has a beautiful view, and its location is little way from a big city. But I come from home every day by street car and train, for my home is at the east end of the city and the school is at the west end.

It's already cold in the shade; but the autumn is just beautiful.

My best wishes for Y. W. C. A. work and for the college. I am sending my love to each of you.

Mr. Baxley's Parting Shot

The post election statement of Mr. A. B. Baxley, defeated candidate for Probate Judge, published in the papers of the county last week, was disappointing. It revealed a disappointed and disillusioned man afflicted with severe ranking over a defeat that was imminent and overwhelming. Without a chance of election, even from the start, it is regrettable that he should now attempt to explain his defeat in such words as he has penned and published.

Generally his statement has been accepted as actually unfair and unwarranted. It was provocative of a mixture of opinions. We have heard almost every imaginable kind of reaction expressed, except anything that would tend to agree with his statements and inferences.

We do not believe Mr. Baxley is justified in saying and insinuating the things contained in his letter of last week. Further, we believe that, in giving voice to such words, he has gone out of his way to accuse our county political leadership, our electorate in general, and Judge Walker in particular of practices of which they are not guilty.

Mr. Baxley says: "Two days before the election nearly everybody in the county believed that I would be elected to the probate office, and I think I could even include the probate judge himself."

It would be more nearly the truth, we think, to say that two days, or any time, before the election nobody believed Mr. Baxley would be elected; and what we wonder most is why he, himself, could not see what was so obvious.

In his postmortem Mr. Baxley reminds us of the boy who went squirrel hunting, tramped the woods all day, and came back near home with no game to show for his efforts. Observing an abandoned squirrel nest up a tree, he said to himself as he drew aim upon it, "I have made a plum failure of this hunt, unless in this last effort, I can blow one out of that nest."

Bang! went his gun. Dust and leaves fell all about him, but no squirrel. He sulked homeward with a piece of trash in his eye, and his disposition was sour and ugly toward his family associates because his hunt was a failure.

"Judge Harrison" By 12 To 0

After all, it is pointed out that Shelby County did not go Democratic "all the way from constable to President" in the recent election.

A few alert Republicans at the Montevallo box are credited with the cleverness that prevented the Democratic success from being totally unanimous, and resulted in the election of Mr. Pat Harrison as Justice of the Peace in Beat 4.

On the day of the election, it is said that a group quietly and without advertising the fact, agreed to write the name of Mr. Harrison on the ballot, as there was no candidate's name printed thereon for the place of Justice of the Peace.

When the votes were counted it was Judge Harrison by a tally of 12 to 0.

Mr. Harrison, it was jokingly reported, was so exasperated by the Democratic landslide he went home on election night rather disgusted with the world. "He will not be able to get out again for a few days," they laughed.

But next morning Mr. Harrison was in circulation as usual, not apparently daunted by the general result, even if he did inwardly feel that the country had done powerfully wrong. The only perceptible difference, some declared, was that he had just a little air of added dignity about him as he contemplated wearing the mantle of "Judge Harrison" which had been so cleverly bestowed at the hands of a few of his faithful and ever watchful Republican friends.

The Baptist Orphanage Truck

The Baptist Orphanage at Troy will send a truck to Shelby County next Monday, November 25, to gather up the supplies which the churches of the association give. The truck will come to Montevallo Monday afternoon. Mr. M. P. Jeter, Mr. Bliss Nix, and Mrs. A. H. Watson are a committee to receive any supplies you want to give. All gifts should be in Mr. Jeter's store by early afternoon Monday.

Any kind of food, clothing, kitchen or farm supplies, anything useful in the home or on the farm will be suitable to give. Do not buy anything to give. A cash Christmas offering will be taken on December 15. Give only what you have on hand already now.

Study Course Is Completed Wednesday

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Montevallo Methodist Church completed last Wednesday its mission study course, under the capable leadership of their own beloved Mrs. J. Alex Moore. The subject of the course was "Up-rooted Americans."

The Montevallo members were joined in the study course by members from the societies of Wilton, Underwood and Ebenezer. The average daily attendance was thirty three, eleven local members attending every day.

A factor adding to the interest and enjoyment of the study was the informal manner in which the classes were conducted. The members entered freely into discussions, their responses showing that each of them had not only read the books, but had given the subjects serious thought.

At the conclusion of the study course many expressed the opinion that it was the most interesting and practical subject which had been studied by the class in years. Quite a few members had done additional outside reading and with Mrs. Moore as their instructor, each one felt that she had received a blessing during the happy hours spent in her classes.

Mrs. Frank Frost of Underwood suggested that the group give Mrs. Moore a rising vote of thanks for the wonderful manner in which she presented the subjects to them, and each one present responded joyously.

Tea In Honor Of Miss Margaret Evans

Mrs. Nash, Mrs. Reed, the honoree, and her mother, Mrs. H. R. Evans, composed the receiving line.

Miss Lucille Scott kept the bride's book. The gifts were displayed by Mrs. Nell Swindle and Miss Mary Louise Evans.

Others assisting in this delightful affair were Mrs. D. R. Lewis, Mrs. U. Hale, Mrs. Herschel Meadow, Misses Virginia Evans, Sudie Ozley, and Sammy Maddox.

P. T. A. Holds Meeting In Wilton

Miss Minnie Dunn made a helpful talk on Franklin's "Too Much for His Whistle," showing the need for developing a sense of values and ways this may be done.

At the close of the meeting an opportunity was given for the teachers to meet the Wilton parents.

Farmers Essential To National Defense

National defense looms ever larger on the political, industrial and agricultural horizon as the big item for 1941. And, as the defense program increases in importance, so does the American farmer increase in importance for the machinery of national defense cannot be manned by unhappy, unhealthy Americans.

To the American farmer falls the task of assuring the nation's workers enough food and clothing to make them healthy and happy and able to proceed with the great task at hand.

Marketing Quota Eases War Effect

Cotton farmers are better prepared through the marketing quota provisions of the AAA farm program to protect themselves from effects of the European war today than they were during the World War, declares A. W. Jones, Alabama administrative officer.

"Through the adjustment provisions of the program and marketing quotas, farmers have the means to keep the supplies of cotton in line with demand—something they did not have in 1914," he says. "As a result of being unable to work cooperatively in adjusting production, farmers learned then what happened when cotton was thrown on an oversupplied market. In 1914-15 the war weakened demand for a large American crop and caused the price to drop from about 12 cents to 6½ cents. In contrast to this, since the European war broke out in 1939, the farm price of cotton, supported by loans, has actually increased slightly despite a large supply."

With exports of American cotton reduced as a result of the present war and other factors, farmers are facing a serious situation, he points out. Despite the expected increase in domestic consumption, estimated to be 8 million or more bales this season, less than one-half of the 25-million bale world supply of

Revenue Increases During Last Year

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama's state government saved nearly $2,000,000 during the past fiscal year, although expenditures were increased—as were revenues, Governor Frank M. Dixon announced last week.

Tax collections during the fiscal year ending September 30 amounted to $51,099,099 and expenditures, $50,188,713. The cash balance in the treasury at the end of the year was $4,166,980.73, as compared with $3,256,415.48 on September 30, 1939, and $2,332,263.23 the year before.

Salary totals were higher than during the 1937-38 fiscal year, but Governor Dixon commented that addition of new departments and expansion of the work of others accounted for the increase. The new departments are the Personnel Department and the Board of Pardons and Paroles.

In addition, it was recalled, the state is offering new services to the public—and expanded activities. Examples:

Money was borrowed to pay school teachers on time—$4,500,000.

The appropriation to the special educational trust fund was increased—$2,300,000.

Increases were made in conservation work and in forestry protection—$350,000.

Control of Bang's disease begun—$75,000.

Old age benefits and general public welfare increases were made—$742,000.

Old bonded debt retired—$101,000.

Teachers' retirement fund credited—$150,000.

Health Department increase made—$71,000.

The State Highway Patrol fund amounted to $622,361. It disbursed $622,333 during that period in 1939-40. In 1937-38 it received $393,184 in revenue and spent $409,582.

To counties in 1939-40 went $9,212,320 as their shares of the gasoline tax, liquor store profits, sales tax and other revenues. The preceding year, the amount going to the counties from these sources was $8,818,547; and the year before that, $8,144,494.

Governor Dixon said that the gain in state receipts during his first full fiscal year as chief executive had gone partially toward retiring state bonds ahead of their maturity dates with a consequent saving of interest charges.

Paid from the special educational trust fund last year was $10,852,606, compared with $8,585,373 in 1937-38, and $8,468,584 in 1938-39.

Cities in Alabama got $562,474 from the financial institutions excise tax and ABC profits in 1937-38, and in 1938-39 they received $544,768, but in 1939-40 they received $702,774, including $62,412 of state gasoline taxes.

B. P. W. Held Regular Meeting Monday

The regular meeting of the Montevallo Branch of The Business and Professional Women's Club was held Monday night November 18 at Reynolds Hall. After the regular business session called to order by the president, Mrs. Lena Jeter, the Committee on Education, headed by Miss Rochelle Rodd Gachet, led a very timely discussion on "Considering the Price of Peace." Among other considerations Miss Gachet presented some of the highlights from Mr. H. G. Wells recent lecture in Birmingham.

Miss Betty LeBarron presented a splendid discussion of Anne Lidbergh's recent publication which has attracted such nationwide comment. After a fair and impartial discussion the meeting became a round-table discussion with members expressing their views freely and critically.

The Club is planning a children's Christmas party December 16, with Dr. Zoe Black as chairman. Plans for the party will be announced in a later issue.

Miss Bertie Allen was, in 1899, one of the first three full graduates of what is now Alabama College. Because of ill health, she retired two years ago after a long and distinguished service as teacher in the Jefferson County Schools. Among her beloved flowers and books, she makes in Birmingham a real home for her brother and sister.

Miss Bessie Allen has for years held a responsible position in the Birmingham Trust and Savings Company.

And so the record closes, but these women wrought well. Some of them still are active in service and influence, and to all we who abide bow our heads in grateful recognition of what they have meant to Montevallo and to the regions beyond.

TO speak of something being 99% "perfect" is to indicate that it is about as nearly perfect as a thing can be. You may even refer to your electric service as being 99% perfect when talking to a friend about the excellent, dependable service you get.

If so, we appreciate your compliment; however, 99% isn't good enough. There are 8,760 hours in a year. 1% of that is 87 hours and 36 minutes, or three and two-thirds days, during which you would be without electric service each year if it were only 99% perfect! Compare that with the rare—AND SHORT—occasions when the current is off . . . and then usually only as a result of causes beyond our control.

To the extent humanly possible, our ideal is 100% perfect electric service.

Pete Jarman Announces He Will Continue In Congress

His Military Status Is Transferred To The Officers Reserve

In announcing his decision to remain in Congress as representative of the Sixth Alabama District rather than resign to take a year's military training with the National Guard, Congressman Jarman this week gave the following statement to the press of his district:

When war clouds gathered in 1917 I enjoyed no military experience but I immediately applied for admission to the first officers training camp. It was my happy privilege to serve as an officer for more than two years during that war. In 1924 I was appointed Inspector General of the Alabama National Guard with the rank of major. In 1924, when the 31st Division, which consists of troops of Alabama, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi, was organized, I was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel and became its inspector. I have served in this capacity since, attending camp each summer with rare exceptions.

Some confusion recently occurred when General Persons assumed command of our division. Regulations prescribe that when doing so a division commander appoint his staff as his first official act, which caused him to reappoint me to a position I have occupied since 1924. Believing that I was peculiarly qualified to perform the duties of this office, I have always felt that I could do exceptionally well, in combat or mobilization. Consequently, I attended camp last August with the full intention of enjoying the year's active duty as division inspector, although I realized the existence of some doubt about holding both positions.

Even though the daily sessions of the Congress have not been particularly strenuous since August because all concerned were in general agreement with the preparedness program, I have been much busier since then, largely because of that program, than heretofore during strenuous sessions. That fact, together with reflection on the considerable military training already

Miss Evans And Mr. Glasscock Wed In Impressive Ceremony

Miss Margaret Evans and Robert James Glasscock were united in marriage Sunday morning, November 24, at 9 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents in Longview.

Rev. J. McCarty read the service before an altar banked with ivy and white and yellow chrysanthemums. The quiet glow of the many candles on each side of the altar gave a beauty of simplicity to the occasion. Miss Mary Louise Evans, sister of the bride, lighted the candles. Her costume was of moss green with brown accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Fletcher Davis sang "O, Promise Me," accompanied by Mrs. J. O. Jones.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She chose for her wedding a dress of soldier blue with black accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

Miss Virginia Evans was her sister's only attendant. She was dressed in dusky rose with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mr. James Black of Birmingham served Mr. Glasscock as best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Evans of Longview, a former student at Alabama College. For the past few years she has held a responsible position with the Merchants & Planters Bank, where she made many friends. She is an active member of the local Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mr. Glasscock is the son of Mr. Jim Glasscock of Montevallo. He is a graduate of the Montevallo High School. He holds a position with Swift Packing Co. as branch manager at Baton Rouge, La.

The young couple left immediately after the wedding for Baton Rouge where they will reside.

Among those from Montevallo attending the wedding were: Mr. Jim Glasscock, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Tucker, Mrs. Dubose Galloway, Mr. Marshall Burgin, Mrs. M. P. Jeter, Mrs. G. P. Rogan, and Miss Elizabeth Harrison.

Students Observe Art Week With Varied Program

Students and faculty at Alabama College this week are being made "art conscious" as they never were before in an intensive observance of National Art Week which the college art department is sponsoring.

Interest throughout the week will center on an extensive sales exhibition of work by Alabama's own artists. Canvases from many of the state's best known painters are on public exhibition in both Reynolds Hall and Bloch Hall.

As a special feature, there is also an exhibition in Bloch Hall of pottery fashioned by Dr. Gordon McCloskey, professor of economics.

On Thursday, November 28, Kappa Pi, student art fraternity, is holding a special convocation at 7 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium, when many aspects of art as it affects American life will be discussed. Later that same evening Mr. Joseph Marino, instructor in art, will be in a special broadcast over WAPI, Birmingham, when he discusses "How to Select a Painting."

A street fair, involving all art students of the college, and directed by Miss Dawn S. Kennedy, head of the art department, will be the attraction Friday afternoon, when a galaxy of the students own methods—paintings; pen-and-ink drawings, products of the class in sculpture, and miscellaneous art objects—will be on open display for the public between the Library and Bloch Hall. The grand finale will come Friday night between 7 and 9 p.m. when the art department will stage an "Arty Party" to which the whole campus is invited. Guests will have caricatures of themselves drawn by the art students. In a true Bohemian atmosphere they will have a chance to see at first hand how Art with a capital A enriches everyday experience.

Miss Kellogg Reviews Status Of Montevallo Episcopal Church

(Note—Since questions are frequently asked about the Episcopal Church in Montevallo, the members of the Woman's Auxiliary have asked me to write this sketch of its present circumstances and future hopes.—Joyce L. Kellogg, President, The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Church.)

Not many people in Montevallo, outside of the Episcopalians themselves, know much about St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in this community. Yet this denomination ranks fourth in membership and is this year, especially, entering upon a new and vigorous phase of its work in Montevallo.

In recent years St. Andrew's has suffered several handicaps in its work. In the absence of a resident minister, it has been dependent for conduct of services upon the infrequent and irregular visits of one or another of the few hardworked Episcopalian ministers in the diocese of Alabama. Then, in the spring of 1939, a cyclone blew down the old frame structure across the street from the Presbyterian Church, destroying it so completely that the remains could only be

Miss Wooten is president of the Presidents' Council of the college and is an outstanding student.

State Election, December 7 Is Date Set For General Referendum

Saturday, December 7, is the opportunity for cotton farmers to exercise their democratic privilege of voting to decide whether they want to continue cotton marketing quotas in 1941 as in 1938, 1939, and 1940.

Did you know that due to war restrictions exports of American cotton during the first two months of this season were 140,000 bales, compared with 940,000 bales for the same period last year, and that due to these causes we are selling less cotton abroad than at any time since the Civil War period?

Did you know that in 1939 only 36 per cent of the cotton producers went to the polls to vote in the referendum and that this indicates to Congressmen and Senators outside the South a lack of interest in the farm program? This handicaps southern Congressmen and Senators in continuing vital farm legislation.

Does it not seem to you that under present unsettled conditions all over the world that we need a continuance of effective adjustment programs as much, if not more so, than at any time in the past?

Your vote in the referendum is your voice in the farm program.

Toytown at Hicks'

While most of us may have been so busy with other things that we have let the Christmas season slip up on us unawares, such neglect cannot be charged to Mrs. Hicks at the Ben Franklin Store. In fact, the reason so many of us can get by without thinking of Christmas until it is upon us is because alert merchants like Mrs. Hicks do our advance thinking for us and have everything ready and at hand when we do "wake up." All of the above is recited as a preface to saying that the Ben Franklin Store is ready for your Christmas wants to be made known. Toytown is on display. Parents are invited to come and bring the children and let them see the wonders of Stanta's fairyland. Ask Mrs. Hicks for one of her big free books entitled "Santa Claus at the Toytown Circus." It is full of pictures and clever rhymes. This book will be given to "good boys and girls" who are accompanied to the store by mother and dad. Ben Franklin Store has an attractive lay-away plan for Christmas shoppers by which you can make purchases now and take them out later.

Guess We Are About Even

Well, Brother Baxley, we'll just call it a draw. Maybe, after all, you and I are the only ones interested. I didn't like your piece and you did not like mine. Further than this, there appears little we can do about it. Nobody seems to "take us seriously." But we ought to be thankful that we still have freedom of the press where we can get things "off our chest," even if it is something that someone doesn't like or nobody gives a darn about. And herein, too, we both enjoy that much fussed about privilege of having the last word in the argument.

The Chain Store Program

C. S. Keller, former county agent of Henry County, and newspaper publisher of Abbeville, was a visitor to Montevallo Tuesday. Mr. Keller has recently assumed his new connection as public relations promoter for the associated chain store operators of Alabama. He outlines a most commendable policy planned by his employers in which they will seek by an intensive program to bring farm products of Alabama into a better system of marketing. We also were impressed with another part of the plan looking toward making the chain stores take a more active stand in supporting the institutions and activities of the local communities where they operate. "The chain store," said Mr. Keller, "wants to be more than a mere business plan to get money. It wants to be a vital part of the fundamental and progressive impulse that moves in the life of every community where it operates. It wants to help the farmer of that community prepare his products to sell in a market that will yield him the most profit. It wants to unite with every business interest of the community in supporting the things that will make a better community." It sounds good to us, and we know the chain stores, in Mr. Keller, have employed a man who is able to sell such a program to Alabama.

Another Letter From Mr. A. B. Baxley

Editor, Montevallo Times:

In your statement published in the Montevallo Times last week, you infer that and really say that I tried to justify my defeat by unfair statements. If I made an unfair statement, I here and now apologize. As to how it was accepted—well, I'd say about like yours—some liked it—some did not.

You state, "We do not believe Mr. Baxley is justified in saying and insinuating the things contained in his letter, etc." In this statement you apparently make an effort to shield, uphold and exalt the policies as practiced in our elections in Shelby County. I have been in the county 16 years and I have my first election to see yet where money and the absentee ballot did not play a very large part. Will you say this is not true? Do you remember the statement made in the state legislature and published in the Montgomery Advertiser "That the absentee ballot was the only weapon the Democrats had to keep the Republicans out of office in Shelby County?"

I am wondering if you would believe that there was three hundred and fifty dollars spent against me in Beat 3?

Your squirrel hunting story merely serves to cloud the issue. It is always left to the defeated candidate to tell facts about elections—the winner ordinarily has nothing to say. But I think there are many people in Shelby County and Alabama that agree with the editor of The Anniston Times when he said: "While we rejoiced along with most Democrats in the vast Democratic majority in Alabama, on second thought we are regretful at the lopsided victory. It indicates apparently that a two-party system in Alabama is yet far away, and Alabama would benefit in many ways by two hard-fighting parties."

No doubt many people have had this second thought and when enough people reach the point where they really want to see two hard-fighting parties—we'll have them.

Humbly yours,
A. B. BAXLEY.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Services at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church will be held in December upon the regular schedule, rather than upon the tentative one mentioned at the last service. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Miss Pardue Bride Of Mr. Lee

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wesley Pardue of Saginaw announce the marriage of their daughter, Ruth, to Mr. Homer Denson Lee, of Troy.

The marriage was solemnized on November 2 at the home of the groom's brother, Rev. R. J. Lee, pastor of Chisholm Baptist Church, Montgomery, who performed the ceremony. The altar was banked with vari-colored chrysanthemums.

The bride wore a semi-tailored ensemble of soldier blue light weight wool, with hat and other accessories in contrasting brown. Her flowers were orchids and valley lilies. Her going away costume was English tweed in tones of tan and brown.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Lee left for an extended wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Troy and Montgomery.

Mrs. Lee is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wesley Pardue of Saginaw. She received her bachelor's degree in home economics from Alabama College, and later her master's degree from Alabama Polytechnic Institute. She was formerly associated with the Extension Service, serving as home demonstration agent in Chilton County. Later, she joined the staff of the Farm Security Administration as district home management supervisor and is now on the home management staff of the Farm Security Administration regional office in Montgomery.

Mr. Lee is the youngest son of Mrs. John Thomas Lee and the late Mr. John Thomas Lee of Roanoke. Mr. Lee attended the University of Alabama. Later, he was graduated from Massey Business College. He is associated with the Farm Security Administration in the capacity of district supervisor and has headquarters at Troy.—Troy Messenger.

Mrs. Walter Gregg and two children and Mrs. James Edwards returned to their homes in Norfolk, Va., Sunday after a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kendrick.

Jarman Will Stay In Congress

We are pleased with the decision of Congressman Pete Jarman to remain at his important post in Congress as our representative, instead of resigning to take a year's training with the National Guard.

His decision, we think, is made with the soundest reason, and a sincere devotion to his duty of rendering the best service to his district, his state and the country.

As a matter of fact, there can be no doubt that Mr. Jarman already has his "master's degree," so to speak, in military training. His past experiences as an officer in the army of the World War, and in the National Guard have made him ripe in the sense of his ability and fitness to render military service when the emergency call comes. The need for military training at this time certainly falls, not upon experienced military men like Jarman, but upon those who have not had seasoning military experience.

Pete Jarman is ready by virtue of his former training to take his place in the active military duties of a high-ranking and efficient officer when the need arises. He is already thoroughly trained.

At the present time, therefore, we heartily agree with his decision to stay in Congress, where he is in position to render a service to his country that cannot be matched by any other man in the Sixth District.

Captain Lay, One of Our Greatest

The death of Capt. W. P. Lay in Gadsden last week, while not a surprise, was none the less lamented. He was 87 years of age, which fact naturally placed him and his friends in that state of mind to face the inevitable without surprise or recoil.

His death brought to an end the physical activity of one of Alabama's greatest builders. But while his physical being is with us no more, yet his spirit and his good works will live with us until we also have folded our tents and joined him on the other side of the great river.

Capt. Lay was a native of Cherokee County. He was born on the banks of the Coosa River. As a boy he swam in its waters and fished in its eddies and among its shoals. He loved the eccentric stream and it was the inspiration and instrumentality by which he built an industry—the Alabama Power Co.—which stands as the paragon of all and the parent of many of Alabama's other great industries.

A small, soft-spoken man, he dreamed great dreams. And not satisfied by mere dreams, he sought and found the means to make his visions practical and fruitful. He was a most charming, lovable and loving man.

The Alabama Power Co., which he organized and promoted in its earlier years, stands as a monument to his vision and his fruitful life. Scarcely a greater tribute could be given to him.

Montgomery's Last Confederate

The last Confederate soldier in Montgomery, capital of the Confederate States of America, has passed from life.

General Paul Sanguinetti, the little goateed gentleman, long a familiar and obliging guide at the state capitol, died last Sunday. For as long ago as many can remember, he was always found near the Jefferson Davis star at the state house entrance. Dressed in his honorable and honored Confederate grey uniform, neat as a pin and straight as a die, he was there to greet all comers, and if the occasion demanded, show them around the historic place and retell in his inimitable way the stories that link the long years of the past with the moving days of our present.

We have not seen it reported in the stories of events of last week, but we hope General Sanguinetti was permitted to see and take part in unveiling the monument to his hero and commander-in-chief before he passed on to join him in that other land of the spirit.

Income From Christmas Trees

By Dr. Walter B. Jones
Director of Conservation

Christmas without a decorative tree of holly, cedar or pine in the house is unthinkable to thousands of people in Alabama. The long established custom of having a gaily-lighted tree at Yuletide is as much a part of the observance as the traditional Christmas dinner or the exchange of gifts.

Every season thousands of small trees are cut, transported to the urban markets and sold as Christmas trees. Some are offered for sale by the owners of the land upon which they grew, but many are the products of a form of vandalism that has spread rapidly in this state in recent years. By this I mean that certain unscrupulous persons trespass on property, steal the trees and sell them at market. There is a great need to curb the illegal use of cedar, holly, and other decorative trees.

The Alabama Federation of Garden Clubs is now engaged in a statewide campaign to put an end to this theft of trees, and the Department of Conservation heartily endorses the move and offers its cooperation through the department's division of forestry.

The commercial production of Christmas trees offers the farmer and landowner a potential income that compares favorably with timber production — provided some method can be devised to halt the depredations of cedar and holly vandals. A small cedar or holly tree, suitable for Christmas decoration, usually sells for one dollar, and that is as much as the tree would be worth for timber 15 or 20 years later. Raising Christmas trees for the market enables the owner to make something out of his trees while they are young, without having to wait years for the tree to grow up.

As suggested by the Garden Clubs, the tagging of trees grown by farmers on their own property will do much toward putting a stop to illegal cutting and sale of trees. Municipal control of tree-selling markets also will help. The 100,000 colored posters that the Garden Clubs are sending out bearing the legend "Be Sure Your Christmas Tree Has a Tag" will undoubtedly prove valuable in the campaign.

Chelsea School Reports Successful Operation of Lunch Room for Students

About a year ago the patrons of Chelsea School became interested in a lunch room idea. The plan was discussed at two or three meetings and all were in favor of getting started as soon as possible.

A building had to be provided before we could start. The County Board of Education gave the school about 300 board feet of ceiling, some doors and windows from the old Columbiana school building. The community and school raised about $150 for use in building which was used in buying new material. The community had already built a frame of a house and had it covered.

Citizens volunteered their work and in a few weeks a building for exclusive lunch room use 30 by 50 feet was ready to equip. Many things inside were to be done in providing cabinets and tables, stoves and equipment. Many people who had not given labor donated money for equipment. It was finally ready for use, though not as complete as we wished it to be.

This enterprise showed the willingness of the Chelsea community to cooperate on a worthwhile project. All who did no actual work or did not give money lent their encouragement. We would like to list the names of those who took part but it would require a list of nearly everyone in the community.

The lunch room opened in February with six NYA girls as operators. The popularity of the project continued to increase and we had to arrange for shifts in feeding the numbers who ate. Average lunches served during time elementary school was in session was about 160 lunches per day. Of this number about 100 were getting free lunches. At the close of the elementary term we figured we might close down, but the demand was so great we had to continue. Practically 100 per cent of the junior high school ate there for the last two months.

Five-cent lunches were served well balanced and furnished sufficient for a full meal. The satisfaction of the meals was shown by the increased patronage. At the close of the school there was left a balance of $15 cash receipts over disbursements. Of the cash handled, most of it went into additional lunch material, although some was used for equipment.

The project for 1939-40 proved that a good five-cent lunch could be served and stay above debt, even making money if desired. The Welfare department furnished some commodities for use because of those getting free lunches. It was only through cooperation of Welfare Department, County Board of Education, Superintendent of Education, National Youth Administration, citizens of the community, and teachers of the school that the project succeeded.

1940—Fall

The NYA had stopped help for the lunch room. WPA had promised to help. The teachers figured we could not open the lunch room until we got WPA labor. There was a desire, however, to open on the part of the patrons of the school. At the first P. T. A. meeting the men and women pledged help if it would open. Everyone was anxious. Mothers pledged a week's work at a time free, if it could start. One mother pledged several weeks free supervision on work.

There was now nothing to do but open the lunch room. Mothers worked, many who paid cash worked, and through a schedule of shifts, the lunch room has run for almost three months with voluntary labor. It was decided to pay one of the ladies to remain there all the time as supervisor. Nearly every mother had had an experience of a day in the lunch room. Everyone praises the meals. Children seem happy and are well fed for five cents per lunch. Average meals per day are 150 now but on cold days goes up to 175. When winter gets started we expect 200 of the 265 children to be eating, perhaps more.

We are gradually getting WPA cooks lined up. We will have five, as we give 105 children free lunches.

Nothing has been more satisfactory nor less worry for the value than the lunch room. Attendance and work is better. Children are not as cross and general happiness is better. Ninety-nine per cent of the parents cooperate and the other one per cent doesn't kick.

Chelsea community has begun on a new type of community project which will be reported from time to time. There are many loyal, progressive citizens anxious to promote new worthwhile projects. Teachers are willing to cooperate. One man and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Blackery, have moved into the community and will be handy for coordinating school and community activities. We can count fully on teachers who have been located here and also on other new teachers.

Within Our Power

By Mona Gardner
Nationally-known Magazine Writer

There the little Christmas seal is—a square of paper you can cover with your thumb. It is about as significant as a diamond would be. It glitters and shines, and then goes on to tell the world of better things than vanity—that instead of decorating yourself, you are willing to decorate others with the precious thing called health.

You might call the seal a personal medal, in a way. Only instead of putting it in a bureau drawer, you have the fun of showing it to Aunt Kate, to Cousin Jill and Will in far-off states. And to all those scattered friends you only write to at Christmas time. You can stick it on a letter with gusto, for this medal tells everyone you are a person who wants the next generation and the one after that to be healthy.

It's a fine thing to buy power for a dollar or two. Certainly it's a lot more than we usually get for a dollar these days. Perhaps that's what makes buying the seals so satisfactory. With all the abstract and particular fights we have to let others carry on for us, this one fight where we can get in and finish up the thing ourselves.

In our own grasp we have the power to reduce tuberculosis to just an archaic word in an encyclopedia. Or we can go on letting it kill more girls and women between the ages of 15 and 45 than any other disease.

Let us examine this power, for it is actual and demonstrative.

A postal clerk in Copenhagen first thought of the Christmas seal idea in money to build a new hospital for children. He was right.

Enough pennies poured in from that one sale to put up a fine hospital and to buy health for many children.

Three years later a Delaware woman, Emily P. Bissell, tried it in the United States. She hoped to get $300 so that a small hospital which housed tuberculous children might remain open. The 300 seals gave out in the middle of the sale; more were printed; and a third batch. By Christmas Eve, the sale's total was $3,000.

There is the accumulative power produced when more than five million people put dollars into the fight against TB.

And how is this power used? Well, looking back at the 36 years of activities of the National Tuberculosis Association and its nearly 2,000 state, county and city associations throughout the country, we find that these funds have promoted the establishment of the following:

732 institutions — sanatoria and hospitals having tuberculosis departments, providing 90,000 beds for the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis, chiefly for adults.

10,000 public health nurses engaged in tuberculosis work alone.

1,000 clinics holding more than 100,000 sessions annually for diagnosing and finding tuberculosis.

1,679 tuberculosis associations and 842 smaller committees, a statewide organization in every state, and local agencies in all the larger population centers.

This dogged, combined attack has tuberculosis pretty well on the decline. Certainly this is not the year to skip buying the little personal medals. We must buy at least another dollar's worth of power to give the disease the final shove. For its complete eradication in our children's and grandchildren's lives is within our power.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. Barnes, who is the executive secretary of the Baptist State Mission Board, will speak at the Sunday evening service. Either he or Dr. Reid, who is chairman of the executive committee of the State Mission Board, will speak at the Sunday evening service. All the members of the church are urged to attend the services Sunday. Everyone is cordially invited.

The Missionary Society will observe the "Week of Prayer for Foreign Missions" next week. They will meet at the church on Monday and Wednesday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock. Friday they will meet at 10:00 a.m. for the program and will have lunch together at the church.

Mrs. Woods Appointed House Director

Announcement was made by President A. F. Harman of Alabama College of the appointment this week of Mrs. Laura Lyman Woods, of Montevallo, to the newly created post of house director of the College Union Building, Reynolds Hall. According to President Harman's announcement, Mrs. Woods' duties in supervising student social activity in the College Union Building will be similar to the duties of the house directors of the several halls of residence on the campus.

Mrs. Woods is a native of Montevallo and the daughter of the late Judge E. S. Lyman, one of Montevallo's most prominent citizens during his long public life.

With the help of an appropriation from the Public Works Agency, Reynolds Hall was converted into a College Union Building last year, and since being remodeled the building has become the center of student and faculty social life. Here are housed the quarters for student organizations, offices for student publications, a tea room, loafing porch, beauty parlor, post office and supply store, a kitchen and three banquet rooms. Here, too, are a lobby, lounge, reception hall, and men's smoker. Reynolds Theatre is also in the College Union Building, and is the setting for experimental productions and preliminary rehearsals for the College Theatre.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Girl Scouts of Troop 2 met at the Little House Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was opened by a discussion of the three parts of the Girl Scout promise. They are happy to have Lola Hardin as a member of the troop.

Sara Henry Reynolds was appointed chairman of the toy project. The girls divided into committees to work on different types of toys.

Mrs. Davis and the following ten girls were present: Tootsie Clayton, Mary Jean Kennerly, Frances Woods, Frances Nybeck, Pegg yDavis, Sara Henry Reynolds, Julia Rogan, Virginia Barnes, Lola Hardin, and Dama Wills.

The Girl Scouts of troop three met at the Girl Scout house, November 15. Mrs. Higgins, the Scout leader, was present but we missed Miss Morgan, the assistant leader.

We reviewed the history of scouting and talked about what you had to do to be a girl scout. After that we had some social fun including toasting marshmallows.

BAPTIST W. M. S.

Mrs. R. A. Reid was leader of the program at the Baptist W. M. S. meeting Monday afternoon. The subject was "Faithful Amid Persecution." Bible study was conducted by Mrs. Fred Frost. Mrs. M. P. Jeter discussed how we're like and unlike Europeans.

Mrs. Fred Frost answered some "Whys" concerning nationalism, history, boundaries, poverty, totalitarianism and religion. Talks were made by Mrs. Riddle, Mrs. Cooper Shaw, Mrs. H. G. Parker, and Mrs. Pelham Thomas.

Mrs. Vic Miltstead was welcomed into the society as a new member. Those present were Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Mulkey, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Hoskin, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. Riddle, Mrs. R. A. Reid, Mrs. Frost, Mrs. Jeter. After a business session presided over by the president, Mrs. Bridges, plans were discussed for the week of prayer beginning December 2. All members of the church are cordially invited to attend these programs.

Dr. Sloan Requests People To Buy Christmas Seals

The annual sale of Christmas seals to aid in the fight against tuberculosis is under way.

In Shelby County the sale is conducted by the County Anti-Tuberculosis Committee in cooperation with the National Tuberculosis Association.

Tuberculosis is a major health problem in Shelby County. There have been considerably over 200 deaths in the county from this preventable disease in the last decade and the County Health Department has had from 50 to 60 cases under supervision annually.

In the control of Tuberculosis it is necessary to find the cases early by tuberculin testing and X-raying of contacts; by training and rendering non-infectious the early cases; by isolation and proper care of the advanced cases.

The funds derived from the sale of Christmas seals have been used to great advantage in this work.

Many indigent patients have been given the benefits of hospital treatment; the cost of refills in patients who have had collapse treatment has been paid; transportation has been furnished to diagnostic and treatment clinics; supplies furnished to tuberculosis patients to help prevent others from becoming infected; a pneumothorax machine bought and placed at the disposal of the physicians of the county.

It is urged that everyone buy liberally of Christmas seals and thereby aid in the control of one of our most widespread and dangerous preventable diseases.—E. F. Sloan, M. D., County Health Officer.

Mr. Wilton Kendrick of Chelsea is visiting his sister, Mrs. F. L. Moore, this week.

In her new position, Mrs. Woods will coordinate the uses of the College Union Building, Reynolds Hall, and supervise the social life of the students who may bring their relatives and other guests there on visits to the campus.

JARMAN

experienced, finally caused me to become positively convinced that the duty I am performing for my country and for my people as a member of Congress during these trying times is far more important than an additional year of training and that I should not forsake the performance of this duty for training alone.

While quite reluctant to indulge in any request which could not be granted to the lowest ranking private or officer in the Guard, I felt that the preservation of my experience and training to the national defense justified a request for a year's leave of absence or deferred induction that I might retain my commission in the Guard against the possibility of war at some future date. Although we all sincerely hope it will not occur, war would present an entirely different picture. The granting of this request would have continued my direct connection with the Guard and enabled me to commence functioning as division inspector immediately upon the outbreak of hostilities, should such occur. Unfortunately, although very naturally, all of our military laws except the most recent ones are based on either peace or war, whereas, we now find ourselves in what might be termed a twilight zone. Consequently, there was no law or regulation authorizing the Adjutant-General to grant my request although I am convinced that he, Commanding General Persons, the Secretary of War, the Adjutant-General, and the Judge Advocate General of the Army, and the Attorney-General of the United States were anxious to find a way to do so. While no official opinion to that effect was rendered, there was developed serious doubt of the constitutionality of one being simultaneously a member of Congress and a National Guard officer on active federal duty which prompted me to request one of both the Attorney-General and the Judge Advocate General. Much to my surprise, and without my knowledge, the former submitted the matter to the White House and recommended that an executive order covering the situation be issued. This occurred, however, just prior to the President's departure for the Thanksgiving holiday and no such order has resulted.

In the meantime, only two positively proper courses seemed to remain open to me unless this unanticipated and unrequested executive order occurred. One was to resign my commission in order to continue my service in Congress and the other was to request a transfer in my present grade and branch, lieutenant-colonel of infantry, to the National Guard Officers Reserve of Alabama, which commission would certainly not conflict with my congressional service, thereby retaining my connection with the Guard so that in case of emergency I could renew it on an active basis. I submitted such a request to the Adjutant-General several days ago to become effective today.

Having thoroughly enjoyed my service and delightful associations in the Guard, I naturally regret exceedingly the necessity of discontinuing them on an active basis which must deny me the pleasure of a year at Camp Blanding with my comrades. I am delighted, however, to retain my state status in the Reserve Corps.

WOMEN'S SOCIETY HOLD REGULAR MEETING

Circle No. 1 of the Women's Society of Christian Service held its regular meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. L. Orr.

Seventeen regular members were present; we were also delighted to have Mrs. Eddie Mahaffey who became a member.

Mrs. L. C. Parnell, circle leader, called the meeting to order and presided during the business session. The report of the nominating committee was presented by Mrs. T. H. Napier. The following circle officers were elected for the year of 1941: Mrs. W. D. Jackson, leader; Mrs. H. K. Barr, vice-leader; Mrs. J. H. Henning, secretary; Mrs. J. B. Higgins, treasurer.

Following the business, Mrs. J. R. Gilbert, program leader for the afternoon, took charge and presented a program on "Enlarging Our Heritage." Brief summaries of women's evangelical work in China, Japan, Korea, India, Cuba, and Brazil were given by different ladies.

During the social hour delightful refreshments were served by the hostess.

a debt of nearly $1,000, accruing from a paving assessment of some years before. At the commencement of the school year in September, 1939, the thirteen members of the Woman's Auxiliary undertook to raise sufficient funds to pay off this debt, and carried on a consistent effort throughout the year. At the fall meeting of the state Woman's Auxiliaries in Birmingham last October 30, the president of the Montevallo group was able to announce proudly that this goal had been achieved, and that any money now contributed could go directly to the chapel fund. In return she was told that this fund had grown so large that construction of the building might possibly begin next summer. The Montevallo group, though they have concluded their self-imposed task, are not relaxing their efforts but hope this year to add much more to bring closer the desired goal.

While these plans are underway for the future, the church carries on an active life in the present circumstances. Mr. Nelson Gage, curate of the Church of the Advent in Birmingham, now comes for the service of morning prayer on the second Sunday, and evening prayer on the fourth Sunday of every month. Fourteen of the college girls have volunteered to sing in the choir, practicing the hymns and chants at weekly rehearsal. A Girls' Friendly Society is being organized by the Episcopalian students with the assistance of Miss Ethel Reasoner and Miss Anne Eastman; they plan to meet every other Sunday morning. The Woman's Auxiliary, now grown to fifteen members, continue to hold its monthly meetings, striving ever to make the work of the church more effective. A parish meeting of all Episcopals in the parish is projected in the near future. Attendance at the church services is increasing every Sunday, many coming in from Boothton and other outlying communities.
